A Message from the Regional Administrator

Dear Friends:

January has been a busy month. HUD employees across Region III volunteered to help with local Point-In-Time (PIT) counts last week. These annual community counts provide critical information about the breadth of homelessness, progress toward preventing and ending it, and determination of each community's next steps in addressing this tragic issue. As chairman of the Regional Interagency Council on Homelessness, I'm proud to say the volunteer response from HUD and other federal employees was overwhelming, as you'll see from some of the stories in this issue. I, too, had the privilege of volunteering, and spoke with several formerly homeless veterans who are now living in safe, affordable housing and participating in job programs provided by Impact Services in Philadelphia. Putting vets back to work and increasing manufacturing job opportunities were some of the "Built to Last" ideas President Obama offered in his State of the Union Address last week. The President also proposed allowing responsible homeowners to refinance at today's historically low rates, saving an average of $3,000 a year. For more on the State of the Union Address, take a look at this page. Finally, President Obama will unveil his budget plan for FY 2013 this month. Afterward, we'll be in contact with many of you; and together, we'll work on creative and innovative ways to address our communities' most urgent needs. I look forward to continuing to work with you to meet the challenge.

Focus on Fair Housing...

As a pilot program in Washington D.C., HUD is launching a Section 3 Business Registry that will expand job opportunities for low-income people and public housing residents by maintaining a registry of businesses that hire them. HUD will also implement the pilot program in New Orleans, Detroit, Los Angeles and Miami to give contractors, agencies and low-income residents a single source to find eligible Section 3 businesses and job opportunities. The District of Columbia recently passed a historic jobs bill that requires 51% of new employment opportunities created with local funding to be provided to D.C. residents. Since this bill is closely related to Section 3, HUD will work closely with the District government to ensure that jobs and contracting opportunities are provided to local residents. 🎵 STAFF NOTES...SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT... 🎵

Region III is delighted to congratulate and welcome Richard M. Ott as he brings his many talents to his new position as Deputy Regional Administrator. Mr. Ott has been with HUD since 1999, and has served in a number of capacities for the Department; including Philadelphia Homeownership Center Housing Program Officer and Director of Operations and Customer Service. Most recently, Mr. Ott was the Deputy Director for the Philadelphia Homeownership Center.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE IN ORDER

HUD Secretary Shaun Donovan has announced that 13 communities across the U.S., including two in Region III, will receive $3.6 million in Choice Neighborhoods Planning Grants. Washington DC will receive $300,000 for the Kenilworth Courts/Kenilworth Parkside Resident Management Corporation; and Suffolk, VA will receive $255,656 for the East Washington Street Corridor and White Marsh Neighborhood. “All across the country, local planners are serious about rolling up their sleeves to transform distressed neighborhoods into choice neighborhoods,” said Donovan. “These communities can now begin the comprehensive planning needed to turn distressed housing and long-neglected neighborhoods into viable and sustainable mixed-income communities that support positive outcome for families.” Read more about these awards later in this issue.

The Protecting Tenants at Foreclosure Act \(PTFA\), Title VII (pages 30 – 32) of the Helping Families Save Their Homes Act of 2009 has been extended to December 31, 2014, and provides protections to tenants in foreclosed properties. Under the Act, the immediate successor of interest (generally the purchaser) of a foreclosed property must provide all tenants with at least 90 days notice prior to eviction because of foreclosure. Additionally, tenants must be permitted to stay in the residence until the end of the lease, with two exceptions:

1. The property is sold after foreclosure to a purchaser who will be an owner-occupant, or
2. There is no lease or the lease is terminable at will under state law.

Even if these exceptions apply, the tenant must be given at least 90 days notice prior to eviction. The rights of Section 8 tenants are also protected under the Act. The National Housing Law Project (NHLP) has prepared materials that can help housing counseling agencies understand the Act's provisions and help tenants exercise their rights under the law.

WHAT'S HAPPENING AROUND REGION III...

HUD EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA/ REGIONAL OFFICE

Before participating in the Point-in-Time (PIT) count, Regional Administrator Jane C. W. Vincent spent a few minutes talking with formerly homeless veterans who are now living in housing provided by Impact Services.

HUD and the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) are two of the major funding sources (more than $6 million) for Impact Services, a community economic development organization mentioned in Regional Administrator Jane Vincent's message in this issue. Impact Services' core mission is jobs, but they are also one of the largest providers of homes for veterans in the Nation. VA Deputy Assistant Secretary Michael Cardarelli and Jane Vincent stopped in for a visit with the veterans at Impact Services before joining Philadelphia's Point-in-Time (PIT) count. (See pictures above). The vets had inspiring stories of survival on the streets, and spoke of their appreciation for Impact Services having helped them into safe, affordable housing with access to the supportive services they need to be successful. Impact Services has helped place more than 3,400 people in full time jobs since 1993, and has helped more than 2,200 veterans since 1996. For more information about HUD's commitment to veterans, please visit HUD's Veterans Information website.

HUD employees were among the 50 volunteers at Project H.O.M.E., a provider of services to people who are homeless in Philadelphia. After brief training, volunteers teamed up to canvas the City streets and underground subway concourses for homeless individuals. In one section of the underground subway passages alone, volunteers counted 83 individuals. They slept on the floor, on benches or in hallways...even tucked away under the boarding platforms. That night the volunteers counted more than 430 homeless individuals living on the streets and in the subway concourses. These numbers don't include individuals and families who are staying in shelters during the count. Their numbers will be counted in the spring. This experience opened the volunteers' eyes and hearts, and now they know first-hand the need for HUD's homeless programs. Some have already pledged to volunteer again next year.

$49.2 million in emergency aid through HUD's Community Development Block Grant Disaster Recovery Program has been awarded to Pennsylvania to assist the recovery from 2011's natural disasters. These grants will support long-term disaster recovery efforts in the areas of greatest unmet need. HUD is allocating $27,142,501 to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, at least 80 percent of which will be directed to Bradford, Dauphin, Columbia, Wyoming, and/or Luzerne Counties; which had significant damage from Hurricane Irene and Tropical Storm Lee. In addition, Luzerne County will receive $15,738,806 and Dauphin County will receive $6,415,833 directly from HUD.

The Small Communities and Cities \(SC2\) Initiative is taking flight in Chester. In January, HUD team lead David Marable convened a meeting with Chester City officials, HUD program directors and staff, and other federal partners to talk about Chester's issues and what existing resources may be available to help the City revitalize its downtown. Everyone left the room with a better understanding of what the needs are, and what HUD programs may be used to help the City to tackle those challenges. It was an informative session—one HUD would like to have more often with other jurisdictions and communities in Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, as well as around Region III.

HUD CAPITAL DISTRICT

Regional Administrator Jane C. W. Vincent joined Acting Federal Housing Administrator Carol Galante, Mayor Vincent Gray, Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton and DC Housing Authority Executive Director Adrienne Todman to announce that the District of Columbia Housing Authority (DCHA) has been awarded a $300,000 Choice Neighborhoods Planning Grant. DCHA competed with 71 applicants to become one of 13 cities nationwide to receive this funding, and will use it to begin grassroots revitalization of the 288-unit Kenilworth Courts subsidized housing development and the transformation of the Parkside-Kenilworth neighborhood. Mayor Gray explained the DCHA Choice planning process will build upon and strengthen the planning process of the DC Promise Neighborhoods (US Department of Education) Initiative, led by the Cesar Chavez Charter Schools. "We now have a Choice, so we can keep our Promise," he quipped.

In January, staff from the HUD Capital District Office participated in several events to help people who are homeless:

(Left) Members of the HUD Capital District Office joined with HUD’s Veterans Affinity Group to collect and distribute boots for homeless veterans, both male and female. Dubbed “Walk in Their Footsteps,” the office and volunteers collected nearly 300 pairs of new shoes and boots. These shoes and boots were later distributed at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center during their Winterhaven Stand-down for homeless veterans on January 21, 2012. HUD Capital District Office Director Marvin Turner joined VA Secretary Shinseki in thanking the volunteers and veterans during a tour of the Veterans Affairs Medical Center. And HUD Capital District Office staff participated in the 2012 Point-in-Time count. During the Point-in-Time count, these volunteers helped with the community’s efforts to count people who are homeless.

HUD WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

In New Castle, PA LCCAP (Lawrence County Community Action Partnership) enhances the quality of life for residents by mobilizing and directing resources to assist, educate, and promote self-sufficiency. Comprised of Lawrence County Social Services, United Community Services of Lawrence County and Allied Coordinated Transportation Services, Inc., LCCAP is a master of funding streams and “braiding” of multiple programs and initiatives to promote sustenance and staying power for smaller communities with limited resources. Several of its programs are funded in part by HUD: Section 3 GreenWorks Training Program, Healthy Homes and Lead Based Paint Hazard Control Program and Supportive Housing Programs-Turning Point, TEAM, New Options, and NWRegional. Contracting and sub-contracting opportunities and avenues increase partner investment and longevity. To learn more about LCCAP and community investments see www.lccap.org.

Everyone Counts in Western Pennsylvania! On Wednesday January 25, HUD Western PA staff volunteered to work with Operational Safety Net (OSN), a member organization of the Allegheny County Continuum of Care, to help conduct their annual Point-in-Time count of people who are homeless. This year the annual count occurred in two venues: the severe weather shelter in a downtown Pittsburgh church, and in the surrounding streets. In hundreds of towns, communities, and neighborhoods across the nation, homeless funding and services are calculated on the results of the annual homeless count. HUD staff and other volunteers, and specially trained urban outreach teams, met with homeless men and women who came to the shelter for warmth, food, clothing and medical attention. To learn more about OSN and homeless street outreach go to: www.pmhs.org.

If it weren't for the Housing Authority City of Erie's (HACE) 2011 capital improvement projects, more than 100 Erie area residents might still be unemployed. HACE had "shovel ready" projects when HUD money recently became available, just as they did when American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) money arrived in Erie. HACE has a strong commitment to Section 3, which requires that organizations receiving federal funds must provide job training, employment, and contract opportunities for low- or very-low income residents in connection with projects and activities in their neighborhoods. HACE tenants appreciate both the construction improvements and the job opportunities they bring. Read more about it here. Below, pictured "on the job" are:

Everyone Counts in Richmond, Virginia! On Thursday, January 26, 19 HUD Virginia staff members joined 55 other volunteers to help Homeward, the Richmond metro area Continuum of Care lead agency, conduct the Winter 2012 Point-in-Time count of people who are homeless in downtown Richmond. Homeward’s semi-annual count takes place in a number of locations: shelters, meal sites and wherever people who are homeless may be found. The downtown Richmond location, historic St. Paul’s Episcopal Church lunch program, hosted nearly 300 guests and had service information, clothing and free haircuts available. Joining the volunteer effort were partners from McGuire Veterans Affairs Medical Center, the Virginia Department of Social Services, and a number of other outreach partners. Additionally, HUD Deputy Assistant Secretary for Special Needs Action Programs Mark Johnston, his wife Lynne, VA Assistant Secretary for Operations, Security and Preparedness, Joe Riojas, his wife Susan, and VA Network Homeless Coordinator for VISN6 Jeff Doyle served as volunteers in the downtown Richmond effort. Among the people participating in the survey was Earl Dunn, birthday boy and brand-new recipient of a HUD-VASH voucher, who was reached during the summer 2011 “1,000 Homes” effort.

HUD DELAWARE

On Tuesday, January 31st, United Cerebral Palsy of Delaware (UCP) held the grand opening for Garrett House, a HUD Section 811 housing opportunity for people with disabilities. The HUD funding was leveraged with funding from 10 other partners: the city of Wilmington, Delaware State Housing Authority, Delaware Division of Natural Resources and Environmental Control, New Castle County, JPMorgan Chase, Bank of America, First State

Community Loan Fund, Delmarva Power, Longwood Foundation, and Crystal Trust. The result is a remarkable example of community-wide support!

UPC started Garrett House with a historic building in great disrepair. They converted the upper two floors of the three-story building into 7 accessible and affordable apartments for persons with disabilities. The design involves a focus on integration into the existing community, so the residents of Garrett house are fully part of the community, sharing grocery stores, parks, movie theaters, restaurants, and sidewalks with everyone else. Garrett House is the beginning of a personal growth process for residents and their neighbors - there is no substitute for this kind of intentional community building.
