

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, homelessness is a complex problem involving mental health, medical care, substance abuse, housing and employment; and

WHEREAS, there are people living in Wyoming who are homeless and have no permanent place to call their own, and are therefore lacking the stability needed for a happy, healthy, productive life; and

WHEREAS, the homeless in Wyoming are found downtown, in shelters, hospitals, veterans' centers, foster homes and prisons; and

WHEREAS, in Wyoming, we are unsure of the number of people and families who are truly homeless; and

WHEREAS, to begin to address this problem in Wyoming, it is imperative to accurately count the number of people across our state who are homeless.

NOW THEREFORE, I, MATTHEW H. MEAD, Governor of the State of Wyoming, do hereby proclaim January 22, 2014 as in Wyoming.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Executive Seal of the Governor of Wyoming to be affixed this 21 day of January 2014.
