Dear Mr. McGonagle:

As President & CEO of Associated Early Care and Education, Inc. (“Associated,” or AECE), BHA’s lead partner for the proposed new Learning Center at Bromley Heath, I am providing this letter to confirm Associated’s strong commitment – both programmatic and financial -- to the successful development and ongoing operational sustainability of the Learning Center. We whole-heartedly support BHA’s application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for $5 million in Capital Fund Education and Training Community Facilities funding to support this project. As the main provider of early care and education at Bromley Heath for over 50 years, our Board of Directors, staff and donors are fully and enthusiastically committed to providing the specific funds and services noted below, both for the five years of this project and for many more years -- and generations -- to come.

Associated as Provider and Leader in the Field

As the largest and oldest non-profit early education provider in New England, Associated currently enrolls over 1,200 children in its six Centers and network of over 150 Family Child Care Providers. Associated’s Centers are fully accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) and regularly receive the highest scores for environment and program quality. As a leader in the field, Associated is the top state-wide provider of technical assistance and training to other programs seeking accreditation, and our quality assurance staff has trained hundreds of providers throughout the Commonwealth in how to implement new research-based child assessment tools.

Associated’s Commitments as Developer/Manager

Highly-Qualified Team. To develop the new Learning Center, Associated has assembled a team with unparalleled experience in both facilities development and management, as well as the design of state-of-the-art, indoor and outdoor learning environments. This team will be fully engaged through all phases of design and construction, working closely with residents, the Tenant Management Corporation and strategic partners.

Capital Contribution. Associated will provide [redacted] of its own resources (i.e., company cash and contributions) toward the sources of funding for the facility’s development. That amount includes: [redacted] in committed pledges from Associated’s Board of Directors (current and former), of which [redacted] has already been received. Associated guarantees all pledged funds. To date, Associated has spent [redacted] on pre-development capitalized soft costs.
Operational Support. In the first five years of operation (see Operating Pro Forma—5 Years), Associated is committed to providing more than [redacted] in total direct cost support. We have deep experience running high-quality early learning centers for low-income children and have continuously received additional fees as a high-quality provider working with priority populations. Associated also has an outstanding record of foundation and corporate support for quality enhancements to our programs and services.

Services Provided

Early Childhood Education. Associated is committed to enrolling a predominance of Bromley Heath children in its new Infant Toddler program (7 classrooms of 9 each = 63) and its Pre-School program (3 classrooms of 20 each = 60, two of which will be ABCD Head Start classrooms). With 2.7 teachers in each classroom, lead teachers with Bachelor’s Degrees or higher, Jumpstart volunteers, and a fully developed professional development program for all staff (see below), Associated ensures the highest levels of teaching, child assessment, and parent engagement.

After School/Out of School Program. Another 52 slots will be available to Bromley Heath children ages 5-8 in the after-school program, which will be intentionally designed to complement the math and literacy programs of the Center and the Boston Public Schools, as well as offer a full array of arts, environmental, and hands-on science learning. An Assistant Director will lead the program with four professional staff, offering both full supervision and student choice each afternoon and during school vacations. Both Boston Nature Center and Boston After School and Beyond will provide guidance in curriculum development and evaluation. Associated is committed to coordinating its after school program with the drop-in after school program for older children currently in the neighboring building run by the Tenant Management Corporation.

Quality Improvement Institute (QII). The new center will become a demonstration and training site for Associated’s Quality Improvement Institute. Working with Thrive in Five, the City-wide early learning initiative run jointly by the United Way and the City of Boston, the Institute will bring early educators from neighborhoods throughout Boston to Bromley Heath for professional development workshops that will benefit Center staff as well. QII will have an office at the Learning Center (note: its staff and other costs are included in Associated’s agency-wide budget rather than the Center’s budget, since it serves an agency-wide purpose).

Family Support and Stabilization. In partnership with Family Service of Greater Boston (FSGB), Associated will enroll families as well as their children in educational and support programs designed to increase the self-sufficiency of each family. Associated is committing two social workers to work with individual families and oversee parent education (see below) and stabilization/financial security efforts. FSGB is providing two additional social worker clinicians who will ensure that all families have access to the clinical assessment services, specialized interventions, family therapy, and parenting classes they may need. Boston University’s Schools of Education, Social Work, and Public Health are aligned to support all of the above associated Early Care and Education with professional development, research and evaluation capability, and staffing. With the United Way and Black Ministerial Alliance, Associated is developing and testing a new family stability initiative, including financial literacy classes and coaching, as well as a customized self-sufficiency matrix as a tool for both assessment and evaluation of its overall family engagement strategy.

Wellness and Health Care Coordination. Associated is committed to providing a fulltime Wellness Coordinator who will be the nutrition and fitness advocate for children and families, as well as the staff person responsible for ensuring that all children receive health screenings and that sick children receive prompt and appropriate medical attention, in partnership with the neighboring Children’s Hospital of Boston’s Martha Eliot Health Center.

Parent and Adult Education. Working with Cooking Matters, Urban College, and United Way, at least 385 parents each year will benefit from classes and workshops on parenting, GED prep, nutrition, cooking and shopping, financial issues, and other topics that relate to the specific needs of Learning Center parents. In addition, Urban College will operate a satellite facility at the Center, offering coursework for an estimated 147 adults per year in certificate programs, associate’s and bachelor’s degree programs, and other classes in early childhood education, family childcare, human services, and other areas with strong employment opportunities.

Commitment to Employment for Section 3 Residents. With the BHA, Associated is fully committed to the goals of 30% of new hires going to Section 3 individuals, and 10% of covered construction contracts and 3% of non-construction contracts going to Section 3 businesses. Moreover, Associated anticipates 7-10 openings for classroom assistants, 7-10 in training programs for family childcare, openings for cooks and assistant cooks, and other positions at the Center and other Associated sites for which Section 3 residents will be recruited and trained. Associated is committing to hiring 15 Section 3 persons at the Learning Center specifically. Working with FSGB, Associated is also committed to hiring “parent aides” for other short and long term grant-funded projects.

Operations. Associated is committed to operating a vibrant, safe, clean, and welcoming Center, open from 7:30 AM to 6:30 PM and to 9 PM many nights, as well as on most Saturdays. As a LEED certified GOLD building, the Center will be energy efficient and healthy, living up to the highest standards of livability and universal design.

Again, we are extremely excited to join with the Boston Housing Authority and the Tenant Management Corporation in making this significant and lasting investment in the children, families, and community of Bromley Heath.

Sincerely,

Wayne Yasuguine

3. We also share your focus on family and child wellness as essential to comprehensive early education. Along with many of our United Way affiliates, we welcome your partnership in reducing childhood obesity and promoting healthier life styles through your Healthy Cooking, Healthy Eating program. Dear Mr. McGonagle:

On behalf of Family Service of Greater Boston, I am writing to 1) endorse the application of the Boston Housing Authority and its lead partner, Associated Early Care and Education, for funding from the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development under the Capital Fund Education and Training Community Facilities Program to develop the Learning Center at Bromley Heath; and 2) confirm Family Service's continuing commitment to provide healthy child development and family support mental health services to Associated, including an expansion of services to the new Learning Center.

Agency Profile. Family Service, founded in 1835, is one of New England's leading social welfare agencies, offering a range of programs focused on improving the lives of at-risk children, youth and families by disrupting cycles of intergenerational family dysfunction. Targeting urban Boston residents struggling with the emotional, psychological, physical and economic effects of poverty, abuse, violence and parental neglect, our service goals include prevention and harm reduction; peer and family education; building social-emotional competency; parenting education; behavioral health/trauma services; and case management to prevent and alleviate factors which could lead to family/community crisis. For additional information about Family Service, please access www.fsgb.org.

Strong Start: Healthy Child Development. Three years ago, we developed our Strong Start initiative, a healthy child development model that seeks to strengthen emotional resiliency and competency of low-income children and their families. Motivation for the initiative derived from our clinical experience and intimate understanding of the social impact of the socio-economic challenges confronted by many children and families living in urban Boston. The numbers are compelling. Nearly half of Boston's 40,000 children, ages 0-5, live in the inner city communities of Roxbury, Dorchester, Jamaica Plain and Mattapan supported by Family Service and Associated, and they typically are enrolled in the most resource-starved early education centers. An overwhelming number of these children reside in neighborhoods characterized by high crime and violence, poverty, and family dysfunction, and many have limited access to quality health care, including early screening and immunizations. With these youngsters spending a large portion of each week in daycare, teachers must deal with the trauma produced by exposure to community or family dysfunction; manage noncompliant behavior in classrooms; and work with parents to maintain behavioral expectations at home.

Strong Start services significantly upgrade centers' capacity to deal with the mental health needs of their children by creating a comprehensive clinical and teacher training service delivered by site-based early education mental health specialists able to maximize the effectiveness of clinical assessments, child therapy, professional training and consultation, and parenting skill building.

Associated-Family Service Partnership. In 2009, Family Service entered an agreement with Associated to launch Strong Start in two of its six centers. One of the sites is located across the street from Family Service headquarters in the Bromley-Heath housing development—the largest overseen by the Boston Housing Authority—a physical proximity that has enhanced integration between the delivery of Strong Start and other Family Service clinical services to area residents and Associated families. This is also the location where the proposed Learning Center at Bromley Heath project will be developed.

I worked closely with Associated CEO Wayne Ysaguirre in planning our Strong Start alliance to assure mutual understanding of program goals and objectives and to build a flexible collaborative model that could expand as program needs and resources allowed. There has been a shared commitment. We have found the two organizational cultures to be compatible, and have been most pleased with the quality of the relationship and the results to date. The collaboration with Associated has been highly interactive and very productive. We have regular consultations, as do key managers, about program services and specific issues that arise, and there continues to be commitment to common goals. In most respects, the relationship reflects the collaborative dynamic we imagined when conceiving Strong Start—i.e., marrying Family Service's early childhood mental health clinical capacity with the mental health clinical needs of urban early education programs. Associated understands the value of utilizing outside expertise and maintains an environment that welcomes our therapeutic intervention.

In addition to our onsite Strong Start work with children, therapists from our Center for Behavioral Health (CBH) clinic, and a dedicated team from our Center for Family-Based Services (FBS) provide in-home therapeutic services for children and their families referred because notable family dysfunction has been identified. An example of collateral services we are able to offer is our Helping Fathers Be Fathers program, a life and parenting skills development initiative designed to promote responsible fatherhood among multi-challenged, urban minority men and to reconnect them with their children. This is a compelling need in an urban setting where as many as 75% of households are headed by single parents, overwhelming female. In addition, we are able to provide medication management in both the CBH clinic and in FBS, as well as ongoing case management services. Indeed, the impact of Strong Start is amplified by Family Service's deep clinical capacity and programming strength which comprise a palette of targeted, integrated services for children and their families—e.g., parenting support/skills groups; mental health and substance abuse evaluation/counseling; in-home family stabilization and reunification services; child abuse/neglect prevention and intervention services; parenting assessments; trauma evaluations and treatment services; and engagement of young fathers.

Expanded Services for the Learning Center at Bromley Heath. To support the Learning Center at Bromley Heath, Family Service is committed to providing access to two FTE clinicians to join two staff from Associated's Family Development Department to form a multi-disciplinary team of four professionals dedicated to comprehensive support for the children and families served by the Center. This team would be housed at the new Center to provide the services outlined above. The onsite team would also have direct and continuous access to our Center for Family Based Services located adjacent to the Bromley Heath housing development, thereby creating a true campus of care and education for Bromley Heath residents. We will also work with Associated to recruit Bromley Heath residents to work as parent aides.

The monetary value of the two FTEs for our Strong Start services is [redacted] for the initial year. In addition, we value our administrative support, including the program director, supervisors, educational psychologist, and collateral clinical support from other agency programs at [redacted] for the first year. Using a 3.5% annual index, we project the total value of the Family Service investment over five years at [redacted].

Program Outcome Measurement. Among the outcomes projected for our Strong Start program at the Learning Center, we expect:

- Direct clinical intervention with children to address troubling and disruptive behaviors, resulting in a more compatible environment for children’s cognitive and intellectual development and a higher potential for school readiness.
- Teacher training to enhance teachers’ capacity to address class management and behavioral issues and to equip teachers to work sensitively with children exposed to trauma and other dysfunctional issues.
- Given the Learning Center’s proximity to Family Service clinical offices, families will be able to easily access needed child or child/parent therapy, thereby increasing the chance for therapeutic benefits to carry over from school to family homes.
- Family Service-facilitated parenting education and skill-building workshops to encourage more insightful and self-aware parenting.

We have made a major commitment to program evaluation by developing an outcomes measurement system that not only gauges the effects of individual services, but also assesses the comprehensive impact of our programs as they relate to specific goals. In maintaining our assessment system, we work with Social Science Research & Evaluation, Inc., of Lexington, MA, to assure specified goals and objectives for each program; identify appropriate measurement instruments; and devise methodologies for collecting, analyzing and reporting program data. The result is a disparate, but full range of measures—from highly standardized tools to participant-constructed inventories—with which to evaluate effectiveness. Currently, for use in Strong Start and other child and family programs, they include:

- Client Problem Severity Rating: Parent, child, and family functioning outcome measure
- Child & Adolescent Needs and Strengths Survey (CANS)
- BASC-2 (Behavior Assessment System for Children, Second Edition)
- Ages and Stages Questionnaires & Ages & Stages Questionnaires: Social-Emotional
- Family-based Services Family Assessment
- Trauma Survey: Outcome measure for trauma treatment of children and adolescents
- Effective Black Parenting & Los Ninos Bien Educados pre-/post-survey: outcome measurement for parenting groups

Of particular note, we are planning to acquire Efforts To Outcomes, a web-based, state-of-the-art outcomes measurement system that would enable more comprehensive, integrated impact analysis. ETO measures correlation between client services and the outcomes produced. It is highly adaptable, a desirable feature for a multi-service organization, like Family Service, which must track thousands of clients and report progress and outcome data to multiple public and private funders that typically use different reporting formats. ETO will enable flexibility and longer term impact analysis of children’s progression.
A Long-Term Investment. We believe that the broad sweep of the Learning Center concept is a powerful commitment to building the level of community infrastructure so essential to shaping a stronger, enduring foundation for child and family development in Boston's inner city. Indeed, we conceived Strong Start's collaborative model because of a fundamental belief that, ultimately, successful intervention/prevention to advance healthy development of larger numbers of the community's youngest children and to stabilize their families will increase the potential for meaningfully diminishing the population of troubled adolescent and teenage youth whose destructive behavior is at the center of much of the crime and violence that now plagues urban Boston. The Associated-Family Service partnership—by collaboratively addressing one agency's needs with the resources of the other—offers a compelling community model for competent and efficient early education and social service program delivery.

We look forward to expanding our services to Associated and to being integrally engaged in the high value Learning Center at Bromley Heath initiative.

Sincerely,

Randal Rucker
